Headteacher update

Another week has passed with the children from Beckingham Primary continuing to impress me with their empathy as they have embraced Neurodiversity week and shown tolerance and understanding towards those different to themselves.

We have enjoyed lunchtimes on the field hunting for ladybirds, playing football in ingenious ways to share the nets between more than one team at a time and finding 'snakes' in the trees (aka tree roots!). We hope to raise money to get some more outdoor equipment for the children and also to buy some plants for them to grow in the raised bed area near the pond. If you know of any local businesses who may like to sponsor some plants, please let me know!

Happy Friday!

Egg Decorating Competition!

To celebrate Easter and its connection with eggs we welcome every child to create an egg-citing scene with a decorated egg at the heart of it. Designs will need to be in school by Tuesday 1st April and judging will take place on Thursday 3rd April.

Some eggsamples for inspiration:

26th March.

Snap shots of our learning!

Foundation – The children were lucky enough to have a seat in the back of a real-life police van and have been using lots of ways to explore the phoneme 'or' to write exciting sentences about horses, popcorn and sea shores to name a few.

Class One – Class 1 have been comparing Christopher Columbus with Neil Armstrong as they are explorers with very different journeys and have been planning designs for their puppets in D&T.

Class Two – Class 2 have been learning about fractions and what denominators and numerators tell us and have been wowing us with their progress in swimming as they practice their various strokes on a Friday.

Class Three – This week, Class 3 have been reading 'The Highwayman' poem as inspiration for their writing and have been learning how to calculate missing angles in diagrams of triangles – they have had to use their detective skills to crack these!
